

In more ways than we often realize, information is becoming the lifeblood of our society. Information has immeasurable value and it can be used to one person's advantage or another's cost.

- "Finding A Balance," training video for BC FOIPP officials